Schools ignore advice after Soham inquiry

SAFETY measures to prevent paedophiles and abusers working with children are being ignored by hundreds of schools.

A investigation by our sister paper, the Cambridge Evening News, has revealed one of the key recommendations of Sir Michael Bichard, who carried out an investigation into mistakes leading up to the Soham murders by caretaker Ian Huntley, is being ignored across the region.

And after being informed of the security loophole, Sir Michael has called on the Government, councils and schools to "address this urgently".

After Huntley got a job as caretaker at Soham Village College despite a string of serious sexual allegations against him, the Bichard Inquiry led to the National Council for School Leadership (NCSL) introducing recruitment training to prevent a repeat of the tragedy.

The Safer Recruitment programme, launched in 2005, teaches schools how to weed out potentially dangerous job applicants at interview, and it is recommended that headteachers and one governor from each school should complete it.

But figures obtained under the Freedom of Information Act reveal that nearly three years later, hundreds of schools around the region have failed to carry this out. Some authorities

BY Stephen Exley

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

have as few as 15 per cent of schools fully trained.

Sir Michael said: "Some authorities still seem not to be giving this a priority as the figures show, and the Department for Children, Schools and Families, local authorities and schools need to address this urgently."

"It is essential schools do have staff and governors properly training in Safer Recruitment because interviewing candidates remains an important way of identifying people who should not be working with children."

Councillor John Powley, who represents Soham, said: "This is very worrying. I would urge staff and governors to do everything they can to stop this sort of tragedy ever happening again. We must close every loophole."

One school in Cambridgeshire – Cherry Hinton Infant School – has no staff trained on the course at all, and 64 others have just one NCSL-trained interviewer.

But Cambridgeshire has by far the best Safer Recruitment training record in the region with 73 per cent of schools having two fully qualified interviewers.

Other authorities have as few as 15 per cent of schools with the full quota of NCSL-qualified staff – and neighbouring Norfolk has a massive 58 per cent of schools with no trained interviewers at all.

Hertfordshire and Essex county councils said they did not know how many schools had failed to meet the requirements.

Pub landlord steps in to save bikers' show

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

A POPULAR motorbike festival has been saved by a pub landlord.

The future of Soham Bike Show later this month was in doubt when their original venue, the Soham Lodge Hotel, closed suddenly recently.

The closure left organisers of the show desperately trying to contact the hotel's management to see if it could go ahead.

The show attracts more than 400 bikers each year.

But like other customers with bookings, they faced a wall of silence as managers failed to return their calls or even reveal the identity of the new owners.

Luckily, Cherry Tree landlord Martin Whitehouse offered his premises to the bike show, which will see live music, bike displays and overnight camping in a field next to the pub in Fordham Road.

Bike show organiser Brian Johnson said: "Cancelling the show would have been a nightmare."

"We had already distributed hundreds of flyers and put up all the posters when the Soham Lodge closed, so we would have needed to let everyone know it was not happening."

"It would be awful to have bikers turning up to the hotel and finding it wasn't on."

"We have also raised a lot of money for Magpas at previous shows, so it's good news for them that it is taking place."

"The Cherry Tree has everything we need."

"The custom bike show will take place in the back field and they also have a bandstand for the five bands that we have booked on the day."

Mr Whitehouse said: "The bike show was in jeopardy, so my son Steve got in touch to see if they wanted to use our pub."

■ SHOW GOES ON . . . bike show organiser Cedric Martin, delighted at the new venue.

"They didn't know if the hotel was going to reopen, but we are very happy to help them out."

"If it's a success, then maybe it will become an annual event at the Cherry Tree."

Cedric Martin, one of the show's organisers, said: "It was looking a bit bleak for the show, so it's great that we have found another venue."

"The grounds are a bit smaller, but we will have around 400 people there and plenty of live music from bands."

"We didn't know what was happening when the hotel closed, so it's fantastic the show is now going ahead."

The Soham Bike Show will take place on Sunday, May 25, between 10am and 11pm.

Admission costs £4 or £5 with camping, with any funds raised going to Magpas, the volunteer lifesaving charity.

For more information, telephone (01353) 624568 or (01353) 624374.

Residents call for action over city centre 'eyesore' building

FURIOUS residents and business owners are demanding council action to sort out a city centre "eyesore" after building work ground to a halt yet again.

The anger over the Market Street building site in Ely's historic conservation area follows assurances from owner John Borland to East Cambridgeshire District Council that work was progressing.

But except for a stint of drilling last month, there have been no signs of workmen for three weeks.

It follows months of delays since the former greengrocers shop was torn down in March last year after lying derelict since 2003.

Shopkeepers complained they were losing trade due to iron hoardings around the site, obscuring views of shops, while shoppers said it blighted the city.

John Skipper, a partner in A10 Taxis on Market Street, said: "Nothing has happened for three weeks - it's ridiculous."

"It's a vital passage for Ely, but these hoardings are blocking it off."

Mr Borland has refused to comment on the matter. A member of his staff at his garage on Cambridge Road said: "He says it is his concern and no one else's."

But fed-up readers contacted the Weekly News to complain about the lack of action.

Wayne Hancock, of Dalton Way, Ely, said: "Our council stated they were monitoring Mr Borland's progress on a monthly basis."

"Unless I'm missing something, yet another month has passed and again nothing has occurred . . . This lack of progress on Mr Borland's eyesore has now run on far too long to be acceptable."

Eddie Holden, of Ely Road, Little Downham, said: "What an eyesore in a prime position of Ely. How many years has it been all boarded up, then demolished, now at a stand still?"

Mr Borland has three years to complete the conversion to a shop and flats above, approved by the council.

A council spokesman said: "We are keen to see the work completed as soon as possible."

Race is on for fun day

COMPETITORS are needed for the first Littleport 10km Run.

The race and a 1.5km fun run will take place at Littleport Fun Day at the village's leisure centre on June 22.

The fun day will also see children's races, sports competitions, dog agility demonstrations, stalls and performances by the Littleport Players and Littleport Lancettes.

The run will raise money for The Sunshine Club, part of the carers' charity Crossroads and Littleport Leisure Centre.

For entry forms, go to www.sunshine10k.co.uk or call 07823 333242. For details, contact Andy Rutherford on (01353) 860600.

Special day for the animals

A HOST of animals paraded through Ely Cathedral for a blessing ceremony.

The procession took place on Sunday as part of Wood Green Animal Shelter's 21st annual pet service.

A pack of alpacas, a barn owl, cats, rabbits and dogs from a number of working dog organisations were among those taking part. Dogs from Wood Green Animal Shelter who have been rehomed also appeared.

Canon Missioner Alan Hargrave blessed the creatures. Nicola Bacon, of Wood Green Animal Shelter at Godmanchester, said:

"People enjoyed themselves. It's lovely to see so many people come back each year."

The Ely Imps and the Sawtry Chorale sang hymns as part of the service. The proceeds of a collection went to Ely Cathedral and Wood Green Animal Shelter.

Schools ignore inquiry advice

Jim Paice, MP for Soham, said: "I am pleased that Cambridgeshire appears to be ahead of the rest of the East Anglian region on this, but worried that other local education authorities are failing to meet Sir Michael Richard's recommendations."

"This is a key issue that all local education authorities should be addressing. I shall be pressing ministers to make sure that all schools meet the recommendations Sir Michael made after the Soham tragedy."

Huntley met his 10-year-old victims Holly Wells and Jessica Chapman while working at the village's secondary school. Huntley was convicted of their murder in 2003 and jailed for life – with a minimum tariff of 40 years.

Regarding Cherry Hinton Infant School's lack of trained staff, a council spokesman said one trained member of staff had recently left, the acting headteacher was about to start the training online and another governor had now expressed an interest.

Gordon Jayes, deputy chief executive of Cambridgeshire County Council, said: "We have put a lot of effort into pushing this training. The pick up was slow, but after a lot of relentless nagging we are pleased with the progress we have made."

"Sometimes 100 per cent is never going to be possible, because of things like staff turnover and governors standing down."

Children help charity

PUPILS at Mepal and Witcham Primary School in Brangehill Lane, Mepal, have raised more than £900 for the charity Children with Leukemia by carrying out a sponsored activity 26 times. Each child who raised £26 was given a Mr Men book for their hard work.

Group support

A CANCER support group has started in Littleport.

The Connections Club offers people affected by cancer the chance to talk about their experiences with others, as well as receive pastoral care and time alone in a church chapel. The first meeting will be led by Macmillan Cancer Care coordinator Jamie Spencer and will take place at St John's Chapel, in Hoof Close, Littleport, tomorrow at 7pm. For more details, call Sue Scott on (01353) 860356.

Park traders plan opposed

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

PLANS to allow street trading in Ely's Jubilee Gardens could threaten the future of the peaceful riverside park.

That is the claim from residents, councillors and civic groups, who fear the approval of a trading licence for an ice cream van in the gardens this summer will open the door for rampant "commercialisation" of the park.

They are urging members of East Cambridgeshire District Council's licensing committee to reject an application to make the gardens a "consent area for street trading" at the next meeting on May 14.

Councillor Sheila Friend-Smith, chairman of Friends of Jubilee Gardens, said: "It is such a shame to oppose this licence because we would like to have an ice cream trader there in the summer."

"But if we say 'yes' this time, there is no justifiable reason why we can say 'no' to other traders.

"It could open the flood gates and we do not want to see this area become a market place."

"Part of its attractiveness is because it is so peaceful – it would lose its character if it became a place for traders."

Anthea Maybury, of Downham Road, Ely, also called for people to object to the move.

She said: "We all enjoy the relaxed green space and lovely plants in Jubilee Gardens, so I hope people will take notice of a threatened change."

"It would mean all kinds of stalls can apply to trade there – not just the odd ice cream kiosk in summer but burger vans, promotional stands for sundry organisations, sale of junk of every kind and food stalls creating masses of litter."

"This would take away the delightful atmosphere of the gardens which have been developing into a cherished local spot."

Will Burton, chairman of Ely Perspective's Riverside Group and chairman of Ely Trader's Association, said: "I do not want to inhibit trading in the city, but serious consideration must be given to leisure in Ely."

"The park was not saved a few years ago so it could be turned into a trading zone."

"An ice cream van would be fine, but if it was turned into a designated trading area, it might be hard to stave off other applications to operate there."

"Casual traders also tend to generate a lot of rubbish, which would also be a concern."

"We already have a market square and we should be doing more to open it up to more visitors, rather than have people trading on the riverside."

It's a wrap as cinema closes for revamp

CINEMA fans raised more than £5,000 for charity at a special auction at Ely Cathedral.

The sale of film memorabilia was part of a spectacular evening of song, dance and movies on Sunday to mark the final night of Ely Cinema before the Maltings venue closed for a six-month refurbishment.

More than 200 people filled the cathedral's Lady Chapel for the charity auction to raise money for Arts Development in East Cambridgeshire and the Cathedral Appeal, bidding on lots from the city's cinema vaults.

They were also treated to performances by dancers from Lantern Dance Company and Ely's newly-formed Waits pipers before heading to the cinema to see the first screening of The Other Boleyn Girl in Ely, where it was filmed last summer.

Organiser Caroline Cawley, from ADeC, said: "With the matinee and evening screenings, we had more than 400 people in the cinema on Sunday.

"It was a really special night for everyone at the cathedral.

"It was also great to see the cathedral in some of key scenes in the film itself. I thought it was an excellent film and a terrific way to wrap up the season."

Honour at last for forgotten airman

A FORGOTTEN airman could finally be honoured nearly 70 years after his death.

The Weekly News revealed the tragic story of Sergeant Harry Taylor when an anonymous reader dropped a photo of him into our Ely office, hoping to reunite it with surviving members of his family.

The photo of Harry – in uniform relaxing on a boat on the River Ouse in Ely – prompted several responses from readers, including military historian Chris Harley.

Mr Harley, an expert on the First World War, explained how the 23-year-old was buried in Phaleron War Cemetery, near Athens, after an air crash on December 7, 1940. He said: "Nine Blenheims of 211 Squadron RAF took off from Menidi airbase in Greece for a raid on Valona in Albania, which was then occupied by Italian forces.

■ LEST WE FORGET . . . Sgt Harry Taylor relaxing on the river.

"Two aircraft were forced to turn back due to icing and crashed into hills, near Lamia, with all crew being killed. Harry would have been the observer on one of these two aircraft.

"Strangely Harry is not listed on the Ely War Memorial, nor is his father, Harry, who was killed in one of the actions of the Battle of Arras in 1917."

Now Ely's British Legion branch are looking to add Harry Jnr's name to the war memorial in Market Place.

Chairman Ray Hale said: "It seems strange he was missed off the list. We will be looking at Sergeant Taylor's circumstances to see if we can add him to the list.

"It can be done but has only happened once in exceptional circumstances. It was a young Navy man whose mother couldn't accept her son had died and refused to let his name appear on the memorial.

"When she died, other family members thought it was right that he was finally honoured.

"I think it's important these brave men are not forgotten."

Renewed hope for Liam after long op

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

CHAMPION fundraiser Liam Fairhurst has undergone nine hours of surgery in his latest battle with cancer.

The 13-year-old had major lung surgery at Addenbrooke's Hospital to remove a tumour.

Liam's father Mark told the Weekly News Liam was unconscious for 24 hours following the operation.

Mark said: "I would like to thank the medical staff and the surgeon, Mr Samuels. The operation has gone well and hopefully marks the last of his cancer."

Liam's incredible fundraising efforts while battling cancer last year saw him hit the headlines across the country.

The Soham Village College pupil has raised an amazing £145,000 for cancer charity CLIC Sargent, with money continuing to pour into his appeal.

■ INSPIRATION . . . determined fundraiser Liam Fairhurst.

Picture: Warren Gunn 414988.

Karen Roberts, Community Fundraising Manager for CLIC Sargent in East Anglia said: "We are delighted to hear that Liam's operation went well and we send our best wishes to Liam and all his family."

His inspirational example has also seen him meet Gordon Brown, Princes William and Harry and Prof Stephen Hawking. The Prime Minister was so impressed with Liam that he even mentioned him in his Labour Party conference speech in September.

He also donated a bottle of whisky – autographed by the entire Cabinet – for Liam to auction online, with bidding now standing at £1,000.

Mr Brown said: "Liam is a fantastic young man who is constantly a great inspiration to others, and he continues to make a huge effort to improve life for other children with cancer."

Liam has also supported the campaign run by our sister paper, the Cambridge News, to raise £1 million for a specialist teenage cancer ward at Addenbrooke's. He is on a children's board that allows young people with experience as patients to have a say on £80 million plans for a world-class children's centre at Addenbrooke's.

It is hoped the hospital will rank alongside major centres such as Great Ormond Street in London and Alder Hey in Liverpool.

In Memoriam

DOYLE Terry

My dad Terry Doyle sadly passed away, on May 3rd, 2007, aged 57 years.

You were taken away from us, but no-one can take away all the memories, joy and laughter we shared. People say it gets easier as time goes by, but I miss you even more than when you first left. When you left, you took a piece of my heart with you and that will never be filled again. I will always love and miss you and most definitely, will never forget you.

Your daughter Amber, David, Ryan, Rose and Chayse

Questionnaire fails to give the full picture of Masterplan's impact

Sir, The Ely Masterplan consultation is at last under way, although how effective it will be in finding out what people think about the proposals remains to be seen.

The questionnaire that the council has designed does not give the full picture of the impact of the plans, and seeks to limit any thorough analysis of the possible benefits, or disadvantages that could arise. The plan has as a basic premise the building of 5,000-plus new houses on Greenfield land to the north of Ely completely absorbing Chettisham, filling the whole space between the Ely bypass and Queen Adelaide. Yet the consultation does not even mention this, and does not ask the fundamental question if there is any public support for it. The consultation makes a lot of the delivery of the Ely southern link road, this has much public support, but regional Government has consistently placed it at the bottom of a list of transport priorities, and it would in any case not be critical in managing the huge traffic growth that development on the scale envisaged would bring. Despite trumpeting the growth of local employment, figures provided in background documents show us that the actual numbers of outward commuters using the A10 would vastly increase. Unfortunately this is not made clear in the consultation and in any case improvements to the most critical road for Ely residents are not mentioned or even hinted at. Some proposals in the plan could reasonably be supported, better linkages between the town and river for example, or an improved retail and leisure facilities, the creation of a country park and protecting green space. The new Local Development Framework has been in production for two years, has had considerable local consultation, and fulfils the Regional Spatial Strategy (Government target) for housing growth. The figure for housing growth is in the plan at 1,700 houses, only 300 of which are to be on Greenfield sites. The public, landowners across the district and other interested parties have had time and opportunity to get involved in the process. But the Masterplan in contrast has been written behind closed doors by members of one political group, and officers, with assistance from Cambridgeshire Horizons, an unelected Quango dominated by business interests. Worse than the closed nature of the steering group meetings – the notes from them are not brought to any council committee – is the speed that the proposals have become in essence council policy. Officers have now been instructed “to proceed with arrangements for the delivery and management of the implementation of the Masterplan”. This was passed by strategic development committee on April 15 despite amendments proposed by the Liberal Democrat group asking for more lengthy and balanced consultation. A small group of Conservative councillors are hell bent on fundamentally altering our city; as you can see from the above committee minute quoted, the decision has already been made. Perhaps your readers might like to let those in power at the council know how they feel about a shopping development entirely covering the Paradise Field, I understand residents have already been contacted regarding compulsory purchase possibilities in Lynn Road; or for example moving all leisure facilities to beyond the bypass in Downham Road; or maybe asking questions about traffic management proposals for the 10,000 cars generated by the extra houses not mentioned in the consultation questionnaire. Do get involved, you never know you might be listened to. At a market stall last Saturday a group of Lib Dem councillors asked questions prompted by the Masterplan, in a snapshot consultation exercise, designed to give ALL councillors a better idea of public acceptance of the proposals. The results – rejected as a stunt by Conservatives at council – were startling. Only 12 per cent supported the increased housing figure, the vast majority opting for the more modest and acceptable 1,700. Why are we being told to welcome three times the target figure for new build, especially since the council has committed over £100,000 fighting Mereham, a settlement of a similar size?

Ian Allen
Liberal Democrat Environment and Transport spokesman
East Cambs District Council

Don't spoil the amenities city has to offer

Sir, It is difficult to take any interest in the Masterplan until we know what the Tory councillors are going to do with the Babylon Gallery and the Maltings. If they spoil these amenities then I don't hold out much hope for Ely in the future! I note that in a recent survey carried out by Liberal Democrats on people's first response to the Masterplan, 70 per cent of those questioned said they wanted to see an art gallery retained on Riverside. That information and the fact that 26,000 people visited the Babylon Gallery this year more or less wraps up the case for keeping this tourist attraction, I would have thought. The Tories say they have to close it to save money, though with that amount of visitors, it is obvious the gallery must be bringing a lot of wealth into the city. However, if Babylon has to make money, why not rent out the top part of the building as artist's studios, now it is being vacated by council office staff? The building would be relatively cheap to convert and would bring instant rent into the coffers. Having artists working on site would enable them to open their studios from time to time to visitors, adding another attraction to Riverside. The Tory council says it is listening to what people want. It has already got the message loud and clear about Ely cinema, so let us hope it is taking note about retaining these other important facilities.

■ THE GREAT OUTDOORS . . . pupils get the benefit of fresh air and sunshine in their new £6,000 classroom which parents helped raise the funds to build. CP.

Sun shines on new classroom

YOUNGSTERS are looking forward to lessons outdoors this summer after their new open-air classroom was unveiled.

The £6,000 outdoor classroom at Stretham Primary School will also be also used by children during playtimes.

The opening of the elegant wooden building last week was the result of two years fundraising at the school in Wood Lane, Stretham.

Headteacher Edris Tildesley said: "We are thrilled to have been able to complete this project before the summer term, so the children have additional shade when the sun shines.

"This is a fantastic new facility for the school.

"It will enable us to make even better use of our school grounds by extending the activities that can take place in an outdoor environment.

"It will also form part of the 'quiet zone' in the playground for children who like to spend their playtimes on quieter activities.

"The parents, who all gave so generously towards it, will also benefit from a covered area where they can wait while collecting their children on rainy afternoons."

Protest over plans for new homes

MORE than 100 people have signed a petition against a proposed housing development.

The signatures have been collected by residents of Guntons Close, Soham, who fear plans for 13 new homes on land in nearby Station Road could cause traffic chaos.

They claim there is no room for large vehicles and delivery vans to pass through the cul-de-sac, which would become an access road during building of the homes.

The plans are due to be considered by East Cambridgeshire District Council this month.

Workshop for artists

A ONE-day workshop for people working in the creative arts is taking place in Ely.

The free class for artists, craftsmen and others involved in the creative industries, including sessions on marketing, awards and research opportunities, will be held at Ely's Babylon Gallery, in Waterside, on May 12, starting at 10am.

For more details, call (01353) 616991.

Bin blaze

FIREFIGHTERS were called to a bin fire on Ely market day. A crew from Ely fire station went to the blaze on April 17 outside Ocean Cargo, in The Cloisters, Ely, at 1.45pm.

In front of dozens of shoppers, firefighters quickly put out the fire and returned to base by 2pm.

The cause of the fire was accidental.

Bread bin causes blaze

FIREFIGHTERS came to the rescue after a blaze at an Ely bungalow.

Two crews from Ely were called to Downham Road, Ely, on Thursday at 12.40pm, after a wooden bread bin was left leaning over an oven hob. Firefighters entered the home using breathing apparatus and quickly brought the fire under control. Watch manager Brett Mills said: "Luckily, the woman returned home in time to discover the fire before it had spread."

P.O. protest gains more signatures

A FURTHER 241 people have signed the Save Our Post Offices petition in Ely. The signatures were collected by anti-Mereham campaigners at their stall in Market Place, Ely, on Thursday, meaning more than 1,080 people have now backed the campaign in Ely in April. An additional 157 signatures were also collected against the proposed 5,100-home new town near Stretham, with the total now at 9,542.

A planning inspector is due to pass his recommendations to Secretary of State for Local Government and Communities Hazel Blears this week. She will give her decision in the summer.

Youngsters get to grips with snakes

YOUNG animal lovers got up close and personal with snakes, insects and even a tarantula for their school project.

The children at Ely's Rainbow Pre-school had the chance to touch an assortment of wonderful reptiles and insects during a visit by staff at Fordham Garden Nurseries. It was all part of a "mini-beast" project at the nursery in Downham Road, Ely, on Friday, which saw the fearless youngsters handle snakes and stick insects. Pre-school manager Julie Mellers said: "The snake was the most popular and they loved holding it."

"They had the chance to hold all the animals, except the tarantula. It was a fascinating day for all the children, and they haven't stopped talking about it."

Full Monty star praises show

A MUSICAL version of The Full Monty was given the thumbs-up by one of the stars of the original film.

Paul Butterworth, who played Barry in the 1997 smash-hit comedy starring Robert Carlyle, was the special guest at Ely's Maltings venue on Saturday to see the closing night of the production by the city's Campaign Amateur Theatre.

The distinguished TV and film actor, who played the disapproving stepfather of Carlyle's son, was also on hand to present a cheque for £500 to Cancer Research UK raised from ticket sales from the show.

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

Director Peter Crussell said: "It was fantastic for Paul to join us for the final show. We sold out three of the four shows and audiences seemed to really enjoy it."

"He sent me an email the following day, saying how much he enjoyed it and that the acting was a very high standard."

"We were also very pleased by the crowd's reaction. There was lots of comedy and pathos and they seemed to react to it very well."

"The nudity is only a small element of the play, but the lads were quite willing to do it."

■ STAR AT SHOW . . . actor Paul Butterworth. CP

"We managed to use lights which flashed into the audience, so it was difficult to see anything."

The show was the final theatre production at the Maltings, in Ship Lane, Ely, which is to close for a six-month refurbishment.

Bosses at East Cambridgeshire District Council have insisted there will be a cinema there when it reopens, but the future of the venue's theatre remains less certain.

Mr Crussell added: "Judging by the audiences last week, there is certainly room for a theatre in Ely."

"We don't know exactly how the Maltings will be when it returns, but I think the crowds last week show performing arts in Ely is very healthy and needs a proper venue."

Timber bridge opens

A NEW footbridge has opened at a National Trust nature park.

The timber bridge at Swaffham Bulbeck Lode is part of the Wicken Fen "Spine Route", a traffic-free pathway between Waterbeach, Anglesey Abbey and Wicken Fen.

The bridge and a new half-mile of bridleway will cost £300,000 and will be officially opened in early July.

Improvements are planned for the river crossing at Bottisham Lock and to the bridges over Bottisham and Burwell Lodes with a new bridge planned over Reach Lode. The Spine Route is due to be completed in 2011.

Hospice helpers host surprise party

VOLUNTEERS at a charity shop staged a surprise farewell for the shop manager. Christa Oliver, who lives in Ely, was leaving the St Nicholas Hospice shop in Newmarket High Street which she has run for the past nine years.

Wendy Parrish, one of the shop volunteers, said: "She was taken out for a coffee and while she was out all the available volunteers came in to the shop. "It was a complete surprise to her.

"We've had a good relationship with her over the years and we just wanted to acknowledge how much we have enjoyed working with her."

Ms Oliver has got a new job managing a fashion store in Cambridge's Grand Arcade. The new manager of the St Nicholas Hospice shop, one of seven that raise around £250,000 a year towards the running costs of the Bury St Edmunds hospice, is Phyl Fisher.

Drink driver banned

A CARPENTER has been banned from driving for 16 months after he was caught behind the wheel after a night out with friends.

Steven Goodge, 24, was pulled over by police in Lynn Road, Ely, on April 19 after he was spotted swerving over the white central line as he drove back to his home in New Road, Littleport.

Breath tests showed he was nearly double the legal drive limit, measuring 63mg of alcohol in 100ml of breath. The limit is 35mg.

Goodge pleaded guilty at Ely Magistrates Court on Tuesday to drink driving and was also fined £450 and ordered to pay £60 costs and a £15 victim surcharge.

Princess appeal

THE hunt is on for a new princess for this year's Soham Carnival. The young princess and her two attendants will take centre stage at the town's 55th annual carnival on Monday, May 26.

The trio will lead the parade of floats through the streets of Soham in an open-top car, supplied by the town's Crown Garage.

If you want to nominate someone to be this year's princess, email carnival@soham.org.uk for an application form.

Revival of traffic ban put forward

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

CONTROVERSIAL plans to ban traffic from Ely High Street could soon be revived.

It follows support for the move in a survey by Cambridgeshire County Council, which saw 50 per cent of people backing pedestrianisation of the street on Thursdays and Sundays – as well as the current shoppers-only scheme on Saturdays.

A traffic ban was introduced in Ely on Thursdays two years ago, but it was dropped after traders organised protests.

But Cllr Ian Allen, a member of East Cambridgeshire District Council's environment and transport committee, believed the extended scheme could find favour this time.

He said: "It's at a very early stage, but consultation showed people's priorities were more pedestrianisation and a 20mph zone in Ely.

"Thursday is a really busy day and getting rid of traffic could make Ely a really nice place. We could even bring market stalls down the High Street.

"However, only 400 of the 22,000 people who were sent a questionnaire have completed it and sent it back, so there needs to be more consultation on this issue."

Cllr Will Burton, chairman of Ely Traders' Association, said: "It's a good idea. It would create a nice ambience in the city and make people feel safer and more comfortable walking around Ely."

The Ely Market Town Transport Study, which was presented to the county council's cabinet, saw 75 per cent of people backing plans for a 20mph zone in Ely.

But changes to the council's policy last week on introducing such zones make it unlikely this will happen.

The changes mean costly speed bumps and road remodelling – similar to Ely's Silver Street – must be installed, rather than simply putting up a 20mph sign.

Double award for family at drama festival

A TEENAGE actress has scooped one of the top awards at this year's Cambridge Drama Festival.

Kattreya Smith, 15, from Sutton, won the inaugural Best Under-18 Actress prize at the festival at the Mumford Theatre in Cambridge on Saturday.

The Witchford Village College pupil picked up the award for her role as Saskia in Waterbeach Community Players' show, One Mistake.

Her win made it a double triumph for the Smith family as her father, Stephen, won the festival's main prize for writing the play. Kattreya first appeared on stage at the age of six and was recently seen in Ely in a production of South Pacific at the Maltings. She will now appear in her father's new play, Psychic Babble, at Waterbeach School from May 14 to Saturday, May 17, at 7.45pm in a double bill also featuring One Mistake.

Critics slam site chosen for walk-in health centre

BY John Morgan

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

POORER people and those working long hours in Cambridge and the Fens will lose out when a new health centre opens, critics say.

Cambridgeshire Primary Care Trust (PCT) has been told by the Government to create a new GP-led health centre which will be open daily for up to 12 hours from 2009.

The PCT opted to open it in St Neots – instead of Cambridge, March, Huntingdon or Wisbech – on the grounds that the market town has more residents per GP than the other locations and is set to see steep population growth.

One of the PCT's aims for the new facility, which will have Government funding of £250 million a year, is to "tackle inequalities in health and service provision".

But Geoff Heathcock, Liberal Democrat spokesman for health on Cambridgeshire County Council, thinks that its chosen location means that areas with the highest deprivation and lowest levels of health will not benefit.

He said: "It is bizarre that the PCT, by its own data and its own investigations, comes up with facts that have Fenland as the most deprived area in the county.

"The PCT then flies in the face of that evidence and comes up with a proposal to build a health centre in St Neots."

A PCT report on the health centre notes the county's highest levels of relative deprivation are in Fenland, north-east Cambridge and areas of Huntingdonshire, including St Neots.

It also states: "Developing premises in central Cambridge is necessary, but it is also difficult due to land availability and higher costs."

Dr Mike Knapton, a Cambridge GP, said: "Putting it in St Neots means that in other areas where there is a high level of deprivation, there is no benefit from this investment."

The Government has made health centres with extended opening hours a central element in its drive to tailor the NHS to patient needs.

The St Neots centre, open from 8am to 8pm every day, will offer walk-in and advance bookings.

In its first year, the health centre is expected to cater for 4,800 patients, increasing to 12,000 by the fifth year.

Matthew Smith, assistant director of primary care at the PCT, said: "We weighed up the options very carefully. We concluded that the particular nature of this type of development would be better suited to a large town with a high commuter population.

"Although we have selected St Neots for this particular programme, we are still pursuing improving access to primary care in Wisbech and Cambridge."

Numbers on the rise at Scout groups

THE popularity of Scouting is on the rise in Cambridgeshire.

Membership has shown its most rapid growth in 22 years and now boasts 5,600 youth members in 110 Scout groups across the county.

These are made up of 1,800 Beaver Scouts aged six to eight, 1,700 Cub Scouts aged eight to 10, 1,700 Scouts aged 10 to 14 and 350 Explorer Scouts who range from 14 to 18 years of age.

Richard Claridge, 18, a young leader from Hardwick, is one of 1,300 adult volunteers in the county.

He said: "It's a shame there are so many young people who are missing out on all the activities Scouting offers.

"Already this year, my group has tried out an amazing variety of activities, from scuba diving, hiking in the Lake District and go-karting to kayaking, cooking and a narrow boat expedition in the summer."

A new badge programme and the movement's centenary last year helped to attract 15,000 additional members nationwide.

Peter Duncan, Chief Scout, said: "It's vital that we keep on recruiting volunteers to the movement.

"It makes us stronger, brings in fresh new ideas, and gives the upcoming generations of young people somewhere else to go and something else to do, a little out of the ordinary."

Dancers scoop prize at contest in Barcelona

HIP-HOP dancers from Cambridgeshire wowed crowds in Spain to pick up a prize at an international competition.

Girls from Sutton's Heavy Dance Crew had travelled to the Catalan capital to battle it out against more than 1,200 dancers from 29 countries at the prestigious Barcelona International Dance Competition.

In front of crowds of up to 3,000 people, the teenagers from Sutton Youth Club dazzled judges and spectators alike to finish third out of more than 60 dance groups.

Dance group leader Vicky

Bailey said: "All the other dancers were from professional dance schools, while our girls are just from a youth club, so it's an incredible achievement for the girls to finish third."

"We were up against some amazing dancers from all over the world, so it's fantastic to do so well."

"We've won regional and national competitions, but this was a step up in class."

"To perform in front of such huge crowds was an amazing experience for our dancers and I'm delighted for them."

■ STARS . . . King's School Ely pupil Parker Ramsay, front, with former pupil, George Eddy, who will both be performing in a special concert.

Young musicians in concert for winners

TWO talented musicians from Ely will perform at a special concert in Cambridge next month.

Former King's School Ely pupil, George Eddy, will be one of the performers at the Cambridge Youth Music's Winners' Concert at West Road Concert Hall, in Cambridge, on Sunday, May 11.

The 18-year-old singer was crowned Cambridge Young Musician of the Year 2008.

He will be joined by current King's School Ely pupil, Parker Ramsay, 16, who will also perform his award-winning composition, New Mexico Portrait.

The free concert is sponsored by Stagecoach and starts at 7pm.

Plea for support

AN ELY medical centre is looking for support for its popular music therapy classes. The sessions at The Old Palace neurological care centre, in Palace Green, Ely, have been a big hit with patients, but financial help is needed if the classes are to continue.

Care centre manager Rachael Watts said: "It is wonderful to see the positive changes the enjoyment of these workshops brings. "It is a highlight of the month for many of our residents."

If you are interested in supporting the classes, call (01353) 663357 or email oldpalace.fundraising@sue.rydercare.org

Donation

EALING Studios has donated £250 to Ely in Bloom after shooting part of its latest movie in the city.

TV talent snub for Fenland cowboys

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

A CHEEKY comedy rock group left audiences and talent show judges in stitches, but failed to amuse TV's Mr Nasty.

Simon Cowell was left fuming by Chuck Cash and the Fenland Cowboys, calling them the "very worst kind of act ever" after their appearance on Britain's Got More Talent on Saturday.

But the band's country bumpkin act went down a storm with fellow judges Amanda Holden and Piers Morgan, who laughed along with the 1,000-strong crowd at the Birmingham Hippodrome.

When asked about their day jobs by judges, the Fen Cowboys caused roars of laughter by claiming they were "an eel whisperer", "chicken wrangler" and a "horse teaser".

Drummer Neil Taylor, of Hasse Lane, Soham, whose Fenland alter-ego is "Rooster" said: "We stayed in character the whole day, but this annoyed Simon Cowell a lot."

"He got so angry he threw his pen across the table. He didn't get the Fenland sense of humour at all."

"But Amanda Holden loved it and was clapping along during the song."

"We were buzzed off pretty quickly, but it was a really fun experience and we chatted a lot to the presenter, Stephen Mulhern."

"It hasn't put us off playing though. In fact, our video on Youtube has received more than 15,000 hits in just a few days since we appeared on TV."

Rooster has now decided to keep up the Fenland Cowboys act that so infuriated Mr Cowell and refused to divulge the identities of his Newmarket-based bandmates, guitarist Chuck Cash and bassist Silver.

He said: "We've been going for about 18 months and the cowboy characters are part of our act. It doesn't matter if Simon Cowell doesn't like it."

"It was great fun playing in front of 1,000 people and it didn't worry us at all. I'm glad the crowd enjoyed the joke."

The cowboys can probably forget about clinching a record deal after their unforgettable television appearance, in which their unique mix of country and rock called "crockery" was dubbed a "crime against music" by TV producers.

The band will now return to a slightly more low-key venue for their next performance, the Royal Standard pub in Ely on Saturday evening.

To view the cowboy's performance, go to Youtube and search for the Fenland Cowboys.

Actors' art

THE acclaimed West End show Art is coming to Soham. The hit play by Yasmina Reza, which has been performed more than 2,500 times since it was first staged in 1997, will be staged by St Edmunds' Theatre Royal at The Comrades Club, in Soham, on May 15 at 8pm.

The show surrounds Serge, an art lover who amazes his friends by paying thousands of pounds for a plain white canvas. Their arguments over whether it can be considered "art" stretches their friendship to the limit. The Theatre Royal production has been brought to Soham by ADeC's Arts Development on Tour. Tickets are available from Soham Books, in High Street, Soham or by calling (01353) 723049.

Folk friends

A POPULAR folk night returns to Soham this week. The Festival Folk evening will take place at the Cherry Tree, in Fordham Road, Soham, on Bank Holiday Monday at 8.30pm. Presented by the Soham Festival Society, it will see sets by members of Ely's acclaimed Eel Pie folk band, while guests are invited to bring along their instruments and sing on the night. A Red Rose folk session will also take place at The Pickerels, in Mepal, on Wednesday, May 14, at 9pm. Call Graham Steward on (01353) 778655.

Seeing double but only paying once

THEATRE fans will get two plays for the price of one this month. Wilburton Theatre Group's latest production will see two one-act comedies performed in St Peter's Hall, Wilburton, on Friday, May 9, and Saturday, May 10.

The first play – which will be performed by the theatre's youth group – will be Eddie's Incredible Illusions, by playwright Alan Ayckbourn. It centres on a little boy whose vivid daydreams become all too real for those around him.

The second production, Easy Stages, by NJ Warburton, will be performed by the group's main actors and depicts the dramatic goings on in the wings for a harassed stage manager and his incompetent crew preparing to perform an amateur production of Hamlet. Both performances start at 7.30 pm. Tickets, priced at £6 for adults and £5 for concessions, are available at Wilburton Post Office.

Cockney cheer for fifth charity festival

By John Goode

COCKNEY favourites Chas and Dave are among the acts lined up for the fifth annual FordhamFest which will raise money for Cam-Mind and the Teenage Cancer Trust.

Top bands from the 1960s and 70s including Hawkwind, Bad Manners, Dr Feelgood and The Beat are also on the bill for the four-day festival to be staged between August 7 and 10. Angie Lee, one of the organisers speaking on behalf of MADS Promotions, said: "FordhamFest was put together to be a non-profit making, charitable event in aid of Cam-MIND which helps raise awareness of sufferers with mental health issues. "We've worked with Cam-MIND every year since, as well as helping other charities. This year we'll also be supporting the Teenage Cancer Trust. "We always get fantastic support from everyone in the local area, including the police, the council, the fire service and residents. "Our aim has always been to give young, local and national artists

Semi-detached family home

THIS recently-built semi-detached house is in a small development in the centre of the popular village of Little Downham, near Ely. The accommodation includes an entrance hall, lounge with doors to small enclosed rear garden, fitted kitchen, cloakroom, two bedrooms, and bathroom with shower. There is also a car port with parking for two cars. This property is available to rent now, unfurnished, for £600 per calendar month. For further information contact David Clark & Company on (01353) 665020.

Experienced landlords dominate

THE buy-to-let market is increasingly populated by professional, experienced landlords investing for the long-term, research from Paragon Mortgages has shown. A panel-based survey of 200 mortgage brokers revealed that the number of first-time landlords applying for mortgages has been in decline since the beginning of 2002, while the percentage of remortgage and portfolio extension cases has steadily risen over the same period. This suggests that growth in the buy-to-let market is being driven by experienced landlords building long-term portfolios rather than occasional investors or new entrants to the market. According to ARLA, the average buy-to-let investor intends to hold the property for 17 years, while a separate survey from Paragon shows that 93 per cent of landlords have held buy-to-let property for six years or more. In the three months to the end of February, brokers said four out of 10 landlords taking out buy-to-let mortgages (45 per cent) were remortgaging, while 34 per cent were seeking to extend their portfolios. Only 16 per cent of buy-to-let business comes from people making their first buy-to-let purchase. This figure has declined steadily since May 2001, when four out of 10 buy-to-let mortgages were taken out by first-time investors. Nigel Terrington, Paragon Group chief executive, said: "There is still demand from new landlords to enter the market and opportunities remain for those investors, but professional landlords hold the majority of stock in the private rented sector and these larger scale investors account for the bulk of the new transactions. "These landlords represent the core of the buy-to-let market – they are investors that base their purchase decisions on proven tenant demand for long-term returns rather than speculative investment for a quick profit." Terrington added: "We are experiencing one of the toughest environments for decades, but landlords are in a strong position and invest for the long-term, with some taking opportunist action to add to their portfolios. "We have seen reports that there will be a flood of properties being put up for sale following changes to the capital gains tax rules, but we don't believe this will be the case. "You may see a trickle of properties being marketed by speculative investors wishing to make a quick exit, but all of our anecdotal and statistical evidence suggests landlords are in it for the long-term. "Research released by RICS last week confirms our view. "Their survey of residential letting agents revealed that currently only 2 per cent of landlords will sell at the end of their current tenancy due to the changes in capital gains tax. "Any inclination to cash in on property price gains at the lower tax rate is far outweighed by exceptional tenant demand leading to rising rents." Buy-to-let specialist intermediary, David Whittaker of Mortgages for Business, confirmed that his business has been dealing predominantly with experienced landlords in recent months. "The last few months have been amongst our busiest ever as professional landlords respond to the highest rental demand they have seen for years and add properties to their portfolios at good prices. "We can see that the owner-occupier, and in particular first-time buyer, is having a tough time of it but inevitably this has helped to bolster our clients' businesses."

ELY WEEKLY NEWS

MOTORING

Subtle styling is Coupe's ace

THINK "coupe" and images of a low and slinky muscled thing on performance-enhancing drugs come to mind.

Yet BMW has always taken a more softly, softly approach with its 3 Series Coupe, which has never shared any body panels with its saloon counterpart, but may as well have for all the visual distinctions that this made.

The new model is different though, because it is so much more of a looker than the frumpy saloon. If you are keen to order one, then I recommend the M Sport specification as seen here, which adds visual spice thanks to a body styling package, as well as dynamic verve from lowered sports suspension. Other M Sport goodies include 18-inch light alloy wheels, while inside are "M" tagged doorsills, alcantara-shod sports seats, a tactile short shift gearlever and a chunky steering wheel, both emblazoned with that magical "M" moniker.

All of this sporting pretension feels a little ill at ease in a car powered by a 2-litre diesel engine, and this sense of indiscretion lingers once you have slotted the key into the dash and then been compelled to press a separate starter button to fire things up. I mean please, in a diesel?

FIRST DRIVE

A 3 Series with style

But first impressions can be quiet wrong. Take the Coupé for a drive and the M Sport labels and kit make much more sense. Power goes where it should, to the rear wheels, steering is excellent, and body control is outstanding. The suspension upgrades mean the ride height is lower by 15mm and progress is a little firm, but one of the most amazing things about this car is how well damped it feels. The resulting ride is surprisingly comfortable, and driving impressions are top notch, thanks to the talented chassis, which offers the most advanced suspension design in its class. Lift the bonnet and you will see how well set back the engine is, which no doubt contributes to the perfect 50:50 front/rear weight distribution.

■ THE 3 SERIES COUPE . . . perfectly balanced driving dynamics.

Although the 2-litre unit is the smallest diesel available in the Coupé range, it is a real testament to BMW's engine-making brilliance, offering an unusually high power output, oodles of torque, and impressively low CO2 emissions. In my care it averaged 45mpg.

The only real niggle is a gearbox that is obstructive, make changing through the gears a tad slow.

BASICALLY...

Understated styling means this Coupe doesn't need to shout about its attributes. Take it for a spin, however, and you will realise that there is a subterranean depth of ability waiting to be tapped into.

Audi's Q5 to battle rivals

SMART, swish, and sporty, the new Audi Q5 is destined to do a lot more than add to the crush in the burgeoning family sports utility-crossover vehicle sectors. Audi is very much the badge of the moment, with sales and brand loyalty on the up and still a long way off being on the crest of the wave.

The Q5's flowing lines and lower, more sporting, stance should quickly attract a strong following when it goes on sale in Britain later this year, and could even dent the market aspirations of the firm's new A4 range – the Q5's pricing won't be far removed from that of its popular saloon sibling.

One rival that will be watching its back when the Q5 arrives is the current crossover market leader, the Nissan Qashqai, whose seven-seater version, the Qashqai+2 arrives in the UK in October.

The Qashqai+2, at 4.52 metres long, is closer to the five-door Q5's dimensions, which stretches a little more to 4.63 metres in length.

Yet the new Audi has the longest wheelbase – at 2.81 metres – in this segment, which means a roomy cabin, albeit for only five adults. The Q5's seats are designed to be flexible, especially at the rear, where the backrests are angle-adjustable and easy to fold down via a remote release lever in the boot.

The cargo space itself has a second under-floor storage area, allowing basic load space to first expand to 540 litres before a flattening of the rear seats ups that to 1,560 litres.

Longer cargo can be accommodated by fitting options such as a slide-forward rear bench seat, and a front passenger seat with folding backrest.

The Audi Q5 will initially arrive with three engines, one 2.0-litre turbo petrol unit, and 2.0 and 3.0-litre turbo diesel engine choices. But that powerplant line-up could quickly change – Audi is noted for adding more powerful motors once demand for a range is established.

The four-cylinder 2.0-litre TFSI petrol unit sprints from 0 to 62mph in 7.2 seconds, can touch 138mph, and averages 33.2mpg on the official combined cycle.

The refined 2.0-litre turbo diesel has a combined cycle fuel consumption of 42.1mpg, can reach 62mph from standing in 9.5 seconds, and has a top speed of 126.76 mph.

The most powerful engine in the line-up, the 3.0-litre TDI, is a V6 diesel that delivers 237bhp to take the Audi Q5 from 0 to 62mph in 6.5 seconds, before accelerating away to a top speed of 139mph. The V6's thirst equates to a reasonable 36.6mpg on the combined cycle.

Six-speed manual and seven-speed automatic transmissions will be available, and the Q5 gets Audi's famed quattro four-wheel drive system as standard.

In normal conditions, 60 per cent of the engine power goes to the rear wheels for sporting, rear-focused driving enjoyment, but the transfer box can deliver up to 65 per cent of the power to the front axle, and a maximum of 85 per cent to the rear axle, when there is a demand for it.

Hi-tech fittings and options include cruise control, hill descent control, a parking system with rear-view camera, a lane departure warning system, and Audi's side assist, which warns of hazards when changing lanes.

Other buy-in items include tyre pressure monitoring, a panoramic glass sunroof with tilting function, triple-zone climate control, sun blinds for the rear side windows, adaptive cornering lights, and a powered, push-button tailgate as seen on the firm's bigger Q7 4x4.

■ PRACTICAL . . . Audi's crossover has enough practical solutions to cope with a family and safety in legendary Quattro system.

DIY servicing motorists are a dying breed

MEN no longer trust their DIY motor mechanic skills and are becoming DIFMs (Do It For Me) instead, says a survey.

Only about 14 per cent of male drivers attempt to take care of under-the-bonnet problems, the Castrol poll found.

Rather than doing it themselves, three in four men are now relying on a professional for even the most basic care maintenance, the survey of 1,360 people showed.

With women, the number prepared to go down the DIY road is even smaller, with 87 per cent of female motorists seeking professional help or asking their partners to do their car maintenance.

The survey also found that more than half of motorists are unsure if they are using the right oil for their car.

Rob Stroud of Castrol said: "It seems that less and less modern-day males are able to look after their vehicles themselves.

"While past generations took pride in their cars and spent hours keeping them in tip-top condition, men appear more inclined now to pop to the garage or visit a drive-through car wash.

"Basic car maintenance, such as topping up the oil, can be done at home. However, it's essential that you know what you are doing and are using the right products and equipment. Choosing the right oil for your car can be confusing."

Big rethink on biofuels production

AID AGENCIES and environmentalists have welcomed a Government rethink on the use of biofuels as a way of cutting greenhouse gas emissions.

Just days after implementing the Renewable Transport Fuel Obligation, requiring petrol and diesel to contain a proportion of biofuels, Gordon Brown acknowledged that they were also helping to drive up world food prices.

Addressing a food prices summit in Downing Street, the Prime Minister stressed the need for further research on the issue.

"We need to look closely at the impact of biofuels on food prices and the environment," he said.

Oxfam policy and campaigns director Phil Bloomer, who attended the summit, welcomed the news.

"Setting mandatory targets for biofuels before we are aware of their full impact is madness," he said. "Not only are biofuels pushing up food prices, but they are also linked to human rights abuses and land-grabs from the poor. Furthermore, there is growing evidence that biofuels targets will worsen climate change."

Friends of the Earth's food campaigner, Vicky Hird, added: "Evidence is growing that they cause more harm than good. UK and European targets for increasing biofuel use by adding it to our petrol must be scrapped."

In an article on the No 10 website, Brown said that biofuels were "frequently energy-inefficient" and that a "more selective" approach was needed.

"If our UK review shows that we need to change our approach, we will also push for change in EU biofuels targets," he said.

His comments reflect concern that agricultural land is being switched to biofuel production at a time when the effects of climate change coupled with rising demand mean there is a shortage of land for food production.

MOTORING

Drifting Dads in Caterhams

GIVE your Dad a Father's Day gift to remember by spending the day burning rubber sideways in a Caterham Seven.

The one-day Caterham Driving Experience (CDX) courses will put Dad behind the wheel of the legendary Caterham Seven where he'll be taught how to push the British sportscar to its limits in a relaxed and safe environment.

CDX days aren't just for wannabe racers, they appeal to anybody with a driving licence and a sense of fun! What could be better than thrashing somebody else's sportscar for the day with no guilty conscience?

Participants can mimic an F1 driver's tyre smoking antics through a Slalom or Drift course and get taught to use the rear wheels to steer, powersliding through the assembled bends and learning tricks like doing a doughnut.

At the end of the day, a test around a timed course adds a little friendly competition to the event. Once the tyre smoke settles on what will be a memorable day, your Dad will be left with a certificate, new skills and possibly a trophy but certainly a broad smile across his face.

Days run throughout the year at venues like Brands Hatch, Cadwell Park, Castle Coombe, Elvington, Oulton Park and Silverstone. Vouchers cost from £99 to £399 and are available from www.caterham.co.uk or by calling (01883) 333700.

Melloy shines as Tigers do Ely proud

ELY Tigers u-7s lost three and won one of their four games at the St Neots Festival. In the opening game, four tries from skipper Matthew Melloy, two from Daniel Dicks and one from Robert Armer gave Tigers a narrow 7-6 success over Bedford. It was Melloy who sealed the victory right at the end. The second game, against Dunstablians, was another thriller; but this time

YOUTH FOOTBALL

Swim kids prove a real splash-hit

THE City of Ely Swimming Club entered a novice team into the third round of the Junior Fenland League competition at Peterborough.

Almost every swim by the nine-to-13-year-olds produced a personal best time, some by a large margin. For the majority of the Ely swimmers it was also the first time they had swum in front of a crowd, from competitive diving blocks, and with competition officials and electronic timing. The club is looking for more recruits and details about the City of Ely Swimming Club can be found at www.elyswimmingclub.org

Ely rock and roll

ELY roller hockey club put up a fine show as they hosted the annual u-13s Jubilee Cup tournament at Burwell and Soham. Ely A lost 13-3 to King's Lynn A, but defeated Heme Bay 4-2, East Grinstead 6-2, EC Select 11-6 and Cottenham A 6-4. This left Ely second in their group and in the semi-finals. Ely's Pink Ladies lost 5-3 to Bury, beat Plymouth 10-0 and Cottenham B 8-0, lost to Vilassar 11-0 and drew with King's Lynn B 2-2. On Sunday, the Pink Ladies lost 6-2 to Heme Bay and then drew 0-0 with King's Lynn B, losing on penalties. Ely A faced Vilassar and although they lost 9-1, they had the honour of scoring the first goal against the Spanish team in nearly two hours – a Simon Thompson penalty. Ely A were beaten 8-5 by Bury in a third-place battle.

BOTH teams battled hard, with Witchford starting the brighter thanks to an early goal by Georgia Day. An own goal saw St Ives level the score on the stroke of half time. Panthers u-9s 0 Ely Crusaders 14
FOR the second game running, Crusaders recorded a double-figure win against a very young Panthers side.

Despite a slow opening, with goals from Jordan Marston and Alex Brown easing Ely into the lead, the introduction of Lewis Hooks' direct style sparked the match into life. His two strikes, and another for Marston, enlivened the game. An exciting 15-minute spell then followed with Sam Scarborough's four-goal burst, another two for Hook and a Panthers own goal completing the 12-goal first half. In the second period Jake Butler and Brown added goals. Crusaders: A Brown, J Butler, S Felton, E Frodsham, T Funnell, L Hook, E Jeckells, G Leech, J Marston, J Spittles, Scarborough (m-o-m).

Ely Crusaders u-14s 0 Bluntisham 5

THE home team knew this would be a tough match with the visitors pushing to be champions. Ely started brightly, but an own goal saw their heads drop and injuries meant losing key players, and they found themselves 2-0 down at half time. Bluntisham scored another from the spot and two more from long range. Crusaders: George Bannister, Joe Dalton, Jake Hopkin, Michael F.D., Alex Minall, Lewis Buxton, Nick Kyndt, Arthur Dickinson, Ryan Lowe, Cameron Robb, Luke Hayes, Jacques Odell Rourke, Daniel Twinn, Daniel Jones, Pawel Kalasa.

Littleport Town u-13s 3 Comborton 2

PORT continued their push for promotion with a hard-fought win. They opened the scoring when Nico Bishop netted. The home team made some good chances but could not increase their lead. Comborton came

CRUSADERS END SEASON ON LOW NOTE

Histon u-11s 7 Ely Crusaders 1
ELY Crusaders crashed to one of their heaviest defeats against a Histon outfit who are unbeaten in the league and set to win the Division A title. But for the first half they were second best to the Ely side. The deadlock was broken on 20 minutes when Crusaders failed to clear a corner and when the ball was knocked back into the box, the Histon striker had a free close-range header. Substitute Charlie Root equalised for Ely on 27 minutes. Mitchell Morse got around the back of the back into it and equalised after a goalmouth scramble.

Littleport went back in front when Charlie Bowditch scored direct from a corner, then a long kick from keeper Josh Brown found Bishop who finished well, before Comborton replied.

Littleport: Josh Brown, Arron Heaps, Charlie Bowditch, Jake Kennedy, Kieran Phillips, Luke Thompson, Ezra Collins, Joseph Murfitt, Ben Hawkins, Nico Bishop (c), Ben Jewitt, Carl Lightfoot, Cameron James.

Witchford u-10s 12 Sutton Rangers 0

WITCHFORD'S Matthew Loades bagged six goals as the ball hardly appeared in his side's half. Other goals by Charlie O'Connor and Harry Braybrooke left Witchford eight ahead at half time. Then Loades netted two more, as did Nathan Parker, to secure a handsome win for Witchford. Dan Scott was Witchford's man of the match.

RISEING STARS

BROTHERS Jonathan and Andrew Harris have both caught the eye of Leicester Tigers. Seventeen-year-old sixth-former and promising prop Jonathan, left, leaves the King's School Ely at the end of this term to join the top rugby club's academy programme. His talent was spotted when he was only 14 and playing for Eastern Counties' under-16 squad. Andrew, 14, who is in Year 10 at King's, is to join the Tigers' elite player development group.

JAMES Scott, left, is the fastest junior sculler in the country and fellow King's School Ely pupil, Laurence Dugdale, right, is in the top 10. From 120 scullers who registered for the first time-trial last November, the top 24 took part in GB trials at Dorney. James and Laurence both got through to the final 12. Laurence had a great race in the semi-final, but just failed to make the final by a fraction of a second. In the B group final he finished third and therefore ninth overall. James won both his semi-final and A group final, making him the fastest junior sculler in the country and a hot prospect for the World Championships.

ROBIN Poulter's trip to the Tae Kwon Do International European Championships in Cork brought him gold medals in both Sparring and Patterns. Robin's achievement follows on from a previous gold medal win in Sparring at the British Championships. Robin, above, was silver medallist in the English Championships at Nottingham, where he went on to win the Team Sparring in March. Robin, 15, is a pupil at Witchford Village College and is an enthusiastic red belt cadet member of the Mark Farnham Ely School of Tae Kwon Do.

PREMIER TROPHY

THE Tigers claimed local pride after they pulled off a stunning victory against King's Lynn on Saturday.

Tigers clinched their first victory of the season and ended the Stars' hopes of Premier Trophy progression when Kaj Laukkanen and returning skipper Robbie Kessler sealed a final-heat maximum to complete an amazing comeback at West Row. The rivals slugged out a thrilling contest, with the hosts coming from behind three times. Laukkanen and Kessler put Mildenhall ahead for the first time after a heat nine 5-1 and debutant Henning Loof wowed the crowd in the next race with a blistering ride to beat Aussie ace Kevin Doolan as the Tigers went 33-27 ahead. King's Lynn clawed themselves back into it and looked odds-on victors when their penultimate heat max put them in front 43-41, but the Tigers won it in heat 15. Debutant Loof said: "I was very nervous before the meeting but I got a good start in heat 10 to get my first win. The side has been struggling with team spirit but with Robbie back and myself in, we can all push each other on to do better." Team manager Laurence Rogers said: "It was a cracking meeting and this performance showed just what this team can do."

Mildenhall – Kessler 16 (6 rides), Laukkanen 11+2 (5), Wright 7 (5), Loof 6 (5), Graversen 5 (5), Makinen 1 (4). King's Lynn – Topinka 11 (5 rides), Doolan 11 (5), Smith 7+2 (4), Harrison 5 (4), Tacey 4 (4), Lambert 3+2 (4), Oliver 3 (4).

■ Mildenhall bowed out of the Knockout Cup to Redcar 103-80 on aggregate, losing 40-50 at West Row on Sunday.

ATHLETICS

Manlow turns on the style

ELY Runner John Manlow, still recovering from his marathon at Bungay two weeks earlier, stormed to victory in the Race to Save the Planet 5 over the old March Frostbite Course. Manlow's legs felt awful for the first two miles, but as the race progressed he loosened up and managed to move away to claim top spot.

Result: 1 John Manlow 30:22, 6 Maurice Reed 34:14, 39 Lisa Redman 41:08. Ely ladies Rachel Roberts and Emma Greaves travelled to Hemingford Grey to compete in the Eastern Vets Road AS relay event. Each runner had to complete one lap of the 3km rectangular road course. To make up a full team, Roberts ran the first and third legs. She managed this impressively, running faster the second time, and spectacularly overtaking the runner of the leading ladies' team near the finish. The rules required three different ladies in the team to count, so they were not eligible for prizes.

Unofficial Result: Leg 1 Rachel Roberts 12:41, leg 2 Emma Greaves 13:34, leg 3 Rachel Roberts 12:34.

Miller aiming to make mark after switch to Gers

TEENAGER Tom Miller has signed a two-year professional contract with Scottish giants Glasgow Rangers. The 17-year-old midfielder, who began his fledgling career at Littleport Town, has been at Norwich City for the last three years. After failing to earn a deal with the Norfolk outfit, Rangers swooped for the talented youngster after he impressed in a trial match. Miller, who has already trained with the Clydesdale Bank Premier League club's first team, is eagerly looking forward to his big move. He said: "It was a surprise not to get offered a new deal at Norwich, but that's football and I'm now going on to bigger and better things and I can't wait to get up there." Miller, who attended Millfield Primary School and City of Ely Community College, will move to Glasgow prior to pre-season training on July 1.

Saxby seals cup glory for King's

KING'S School Ely footballers enjoyed a superb 1-0 win against Oundle School in the final of the LG Cup – formerly the Crusader Cup – which was played in front of a large crowd at Cambridge City's Milton Road ground. Sean Saxby scored the winner with a 30-yard strike, halfway through the first half. King's goalkeeper Nick Pope also put on an extra special display which included saving an injury-time penalty to seal the win.

RIDGEONS LEAGUE SPOTLIGHT

Ely cup heroes run out of gas

TWO lapses in concentration cost Ely as they went down 2-1 to Hadleigh at the Unwin Ground in the Ridgeons League, First Division.

Manager Dennis Lightning was without several key players because of injury after the previous Wednesday's epic Knockout Cup final penalty shoot-out victory over Halstead.

And some sloppy defending allowed the visitors to take the lead in the opening period, before Ben Lawrence stole in at the far post to equalise before half time.

Dave Smith then conceded a penalty midway through the second half with a clumsy challenge, and Hadleigh retook the lead.

The Robins threw everything at their opponents in the closing stages, but they could not score a second and lost at home for only the second time this season.

Lightning said: "Andy Pettit, Tony Brown and Jamie Alsop all got knocks on Wednesday and couldn't play and that upset our plans as two are from my back four and one's a striker.

"We changed it around, but Simon Warren and Brady Stone and some of the others were knackered and I'm surprised we did as well as we did.

"We pushed another man up top in the last 10 minutes as we had nothing to lose and we really pressed their goal, but we couldn't find an equaliser."

The Robins, who had keeper Lee Pacey to thank for their 6-5 spot-kick cup win against Halstead – it finished 1-1 after extra time – end their First Division campaign when they entertain Fakenham on Saturday.

■ IAN Benjamin is confident Soham will become Ridgeons League, Premier Division champions on Saturday when they meet second placed Needham Market at Julius Martin Lane.

Market have used their games in hand to close the gap at the summit, but Benjamin knows as long as they avoid defeat on Saturday, his team will lift the title and earn promotion.

He said: "We've been keeping an eye on Needham's results, but the game against Dereham this week will be hard on them, no matter what happens.

"I said it would go to the wire, but as long as we don't lose on Saturday, we will be champions.

"It will be like a cup final, but it is weird to get the top two in the league meeting on the last day." Soham last played a week and a half ago, when they beat Leiston 2-0.
